WNTC Weekend

Special Show

WNTC starts the weekend off right, with George (The Voice) Colvin and Frank Smokin' Truatt, on the "Weekend Special Show." Broadcast from 8-11 pm Friday nights, this show is the humorous interaction between Smokin' and the Voice. It's a good way to unwind from a week of school, and to get psyched for the weekend.

Sunday is the big lineup. Starting with the Future Gold Show from 5-6 pm, Rick Robbins, the station's music director, plays the songs he thinks will make it. He's followed by the weekly news, until 6:30, when the Clarkson College Radio Theatre takes to the air. CCRT is a completely student-run operation, hopefully becoming a thriving addition to WNTC programming.

Finally, at 7 pm, Frank Smokin' Truatt does his Rockollections show, where he plays the old gold until midnight.

For the best in your listening pleasure, tune in WNTC, 64 AM and cable FM 90. Sunday sounds great on WNTC.
